Professional Development

The Graduate School's Professional Development efforts (e.g., workshops, certificate programs, faculty shadowing program, scholarly integrity course) are designed to enhance the academic training of graduate students and postdoctoral scholars within the competencies of Communication, Teaching, Scholarly Development (advanced knowledge and skills in the field), Professionalism (leadership, scholarly integrity, transferable skills), and Career Development. We promote professional development so that when graduate students and postdoctoral scholars enter their careers—whether in academia, the private sector, government, or non-profit organizations—they are prepared and confident.

The Graduate School also partners with other FSU units to provide professional development opportunities. Within this catalog are the wide range of recurring professional development workshops, certificates, programs, and events offered also by the University Libraries, Office of Distance Learning, Career Center, Center for Global Engagement, Center for Intensive English Studies, and Center for Leadership & Social Change. For a matrix of recurring professional development opportunities grouped by core competency and labeled by stage of study, click here.
